My Favourite Roller Coaster

The roller coaster is called Tatsu, it's a ride at six flags! It's a great adventure in California. The ride starts out like any hanging ride facing front but once everyone is strapped and they say the safety instructions, like to keep you head back at all time, you'll feel movement in the chair and you go completely flat on your stomach etc.

The ride starts to go up a ramp you have a 5 second stop so you can see all the people below, most people wave The cart falls down a not so steep slope while doing a corkscrew. On the way, the ride does loops and turns left and right. You hear people screaming and you just can't help but yell.

After the loops and then comes the biggest drop! It's formed as a half circle, you're upside down for the most part, but once you get to the bottom your hair is standing on edge! You're laughing and happy because you do a last turn and go to the end. All the times I have been on it people throw up on it, so you might just see a little throw up at the end, but I would recommend it!
